

Pocket Philosopher

Mandy Moore

Now I'm walking on my own two feet
The sun is shining, my shadow's stretched across the street
And I meet the eyes of a stranger
I can't quite place him and I wouldn't replace
For a second or a minute or an hour of the day
I turned the corner, I was feeling good
All the birds are humming, the bees are buzzing
In the trees all the leaves looked a little bit greener
And the air felt cleaner, yeah I must be dreaming
For a second or a minute and maybe that's okay
Hey, come on let's play a song
Or two or three or four or five if you want more
Well, maybe you got somewhere else to be
Be whoever you wanna be
Whatever you wanna see
Whatever you wanna see
I was awoken by the morning light
My heart felt heavy, I wasn't quite ready
To wake up or make up another good reason
One that is pleasing in a world without seasons
'Cause the truth isn't pretty when it hits you in the face
Hey, come on let's play a song
Or two or three or four or five if you want more
Or maybe you got somewhere
Hey, come on let's play a song
Or two or three or four or five if you want more
Or maybe I'll just sing myself back to sleep

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>