Star Song

Josh Abrahams

You got your tongue pierced once
And you say you got another
That you can't show anyone unless it's under covers
But you're running around showing everyone your new tattooYou got an 'A' in class and you hope no one would notice
You're the smartest kid in school and it makes you self-conscious
And your loser boyfriend's smoking out in the boy's room
I wish someone would tell youYou're a star the way you are, you know you're not fooling anyone
No you've got the eyes of an angel, don't try to change, yeah
Everybody's got their scars
No matter what they tell you, you're beautiful the way you areAnd your mama's so happy you became a cheerleader
Homecoming queen just like your older sister
'Til you died your hair pink and they said what were you drinkin'
And it never did sink in, it don't matter what they think, 'causeYou're a star the way you are, you know you're not fooling anyone
No you've got the eyes of an angel, don't try to change, yeah
Everybody's got their scars, never mind how ugly they are
No matter what they tell you, you're beautiful the way you areAll the way you are
All the way you are
All the way you areYou're a star the way you are, you know you're not fooling anyone
No you've got the eyes of an angel, don't try to change, yeah
Everybody's got their scars
No matter what they tell you, you're beautiful the way you areYou're a star the way you are, you know you're not fooling anyone
No you've got the eyes of an angel, don't try to change, yeah
Everybody's got their scars, never mind how ugly they are
No matter what they tell you, you're beautiful the way you areYou're a star the way you are, you know you're not fooling anyone
No you've got the eyes of an angel, don't try to change, yeah
No matter what they tell you, you're beautiful the way you are
No matter what they tell you, you're beautiful the way you are
No matter what they tell you, you're beautiful the way you are
