

Mama

Ziggy Marley & The Melody Makers

Gott to let you know, got to let Mama I don't ever want to see you cry
If then they knew him they'd have passed right by Oh, Joseph's a man of many women, feel no way
Oh, always remember you are the first of them Oh, mama if they could see where we are coming from the other day
Then they would know just where they belong the other day
If they could see where you're coming from the other day
Then they would know just where they belong Let stumbling blocks fall out of your way each and every day
Lord knows, Lord knows your reward shall be great
They were broken off through their lack of faith
But because of your faith you are still in place Woah Mama, if they could see where you're coming from the other day
Then they would know just where you are coming from
If they could see where you are coming from the other day
Then they would know just where they belong Mama don't cry, don't wanna see you crying Ah my children, oh
mama
Fret not for me
I know Jah will be there eternally If they could see where we are coming from the other day
Then they would know just where they belong the other day
If they could see where we are coming from the other day
Then they would know just where they belong Mama I don't ever want to see you cry ain't no lie
If then they knew him they would have passed right by
So many called but you were chosen, the very best
And so you will remain outspoken Oh mama, if they could see where we are coming from the other day
Then they would know just where they belong the other day
If they could see where we are coming from the other day
Then they would know, then they would know, it's the other day
Yes they would know

Songwriters

Marley, Stephen Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>