

Nerds

Rey Pila

Every time I go to bed all the things I hate come out
The uniform they choose to wear shines bright guides the night
Everything I see as I walk into the hall makes me want to seek the places I call home
And everyone I see as I'm walking further on makes me want to seek the places I call homeControl, control, control, is all that I have the things that I own
So give my control, control, control is all that I have the things that I own
Control, control, control, is all that I have the things that I own
So give my control, control, control is all that I have the things that I ownEvery time I go to bed all the things I hate come out
The uniform they choose to wear shines bright guides the night
Everything I see as I walk into the hall makes me want to seek the places I call home
And everyone I see as I'm walking further on makes me want to seek the places I call homeControl, control, control, is all that I have the things that I own
So give my control, control, control is all that I have the things that I own
Control, control, control, is all that I have the things that I own
So give my control, control, control is all that I have the things that I own
Control, control, control, is all that I have the things that I own
So give my control, control, control is all that I have the things that I own
Control, control, control, is all that I have the things that I own
So give my control, control, control is all that I have the things that I own Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>