Sickness

Under The Flood

Will you ever change? All I see's the same thing. Watched you run away, watched you run from me. You were such a shame tonight with double crossed bloodshot eyes She fell to the ground, well it's a long way down I just wanted you to clarify, how the thrill was worth the rideBut she just sits and she cries Ignoring all of the signs Maybe she'll take the time To stop and realizeShe's got a sickness now And she can't slow down Better take a look at herself You better take a look at yourself You're not a wasted life You're just afraid to try and fight the fear inside To the fight the fear in your eyesToo afraid to live your life You're poisoned and paralyzed She crawled down the stairs But there was nobody there All alone in an empty high You're locked up and terrifiedBut she sits time after time Avoiding all of the signs Maybe she'll take the time To finally realize[Chorus]Well I'm not judging you, I'm not judging you But look at yourself, just look at her[Chorus]She's got a sickness now, and she can't slow down She's got a sickness now, and she can't slow down.
