Carry On

Lost Dog Street Band

"Carry On"

I wish i was dead or drunk or deceived like so many good friends of mine â€˜Cause time it does kill the last of my will to see through my reckless eyes If you should go yours and I should go mine weâ€™ll meet in heaven or hell We never cared for much in between of the world we desperately dwell oooo, How I loved you in the dawn oooo, but our souls they drift apart oooo, we must carry on again oooo , carry on my dearest friend

The moon shines on the porch of the train as i bid New Orleans goodbye, it reminds me again of the man that I am and the thought brings tears to my eyes, The miles between your heart and mine donâ€™t lessen the love we share, So if I should fail or die or prevail my fate is yours to bear

oooo, How I loved you in the dawn
oooo, but our souls they drift apart
oooo, we must carry on again

Iâ€™m weary and tired Iâ€™ve nearly expired as the bottleâ€™s killed in the end, your face comes to mind and I smile and sigh as I ride on again

oooo, How I loved you in the dawn
oooo, but our souls they drift apart
oooo, we must carry on again
oooo , carry on my dearest friend
