The Past Is Proof

Senses Fail

If I think therefore I am
Where halos have been made
It's not that you're an homage
You're a dead end philosophy
I'll never let a tie be my noose
I'll never stop searching for the truth
I'd rather die out on the road
As another boy or man
'Cause none of my possessions
Will make me who I am
'Cause everything in my past is proof
I'll never stop searching for the truth
With my, with my last breath
The streetlights burst, we hope to rest
So bring me back to where all went wrong
So I can give up holding on
If I never love
Then I'll never learn
If I never fall
Then I never learned
'Cause everything in my past is proof
I'll never stop searching for truth
With my, with my last breath
The streetlights burst, we hope to rest
So bring me back to where all went wrong
So I can give up holding on
Give up your false safety
Give up your false safety
The truth would set you free
If I never love
Then I'll never learn
If I never fall
How will I ever learn?
If it's one thing that I know
You gotta look inside to grow
So destroy yourself, just to find yourself
You gotta learn to let go
If I never love
Then I'll never learn

If I never fall
How will I ever learn?
If it's one thing that I know
You gotta look inside to grow
So destroy yourself, just to find yourself
You gotta learn to let go
The past burns slow
With my, with my last breath
The streetlights burst, we hope to rest
So bring me back to where all went wrong
So I can give up holding on
