

Below

From Indian Lakes

I wish I never touched the surface of the sun
Suddenly I'm burning brightly , burning too bright
Falling fast into the sea And I'm aching to the ocean far below
Sleeping softly on and on
Between my daydreams and my nightmares of the sun I may go to the ocean fall
I may go the words were there
But I have never heard them not like this
I may go to the ocean fall , I may go
I stood at the bottom
While I watched as love shared its first kiss I remember it like it happened only moments ago
And know ever this will be the only thing I have of too hold These creatures stare at me while passing all away
Can I touch them now or when they sleep
Or will they try to stop me if I do And I'm angry at the way dreams falls below
Can they see me I am trying
I am like them, reaching for anything else My arms are reaching out I've been Always trying to cover up what you're not accountant for
And my alarm is off now
I can still feel the cold , I can say that I'm still alone
My arms are reaching out I've been
Always trying to cover up what you're not accountant for
And my alarm is off now
I can still feel the cold , I can say that I'm still alone I caught them swimming down below
I found them running
My friends were there but I have never seen them not like this
I caught them swimming down below
I found them running
I wait at the bottom
While I wait for my lover's last kiss I remember it like it happened only moments ago
And remember this will be the only thing I have of too hold
I remember it like it happened only moments ago
And remember this will be the only thing I have of too hold
Till I die too
