

MN Moon

The Big Wu

Look who just walked in the door
We've all seen your face before
It's time to settle up the score
Keep those promises you swore
Look who just walked in the door

Well you moved to Colorado
Thought the whole damn world would follow
But your troubles were the only thing that did
In a suitcase full of lonely,
A longing for the good times was here

But now you're back again,
And it looks like you found a friend
I just bought a bottle for your gift

Look who just walked in the door
We've all seen your face before
It's time to settle up the score
Keep those promises you swore
Look who just walked in the door

You went and dropped the anchor
You were hired as a banker
You got yourself a home up in the hills
But thunder on the prairie
Was the only remedy for your ills

But now you're back again
And it looks like you found a friend
My pocketbook is loaded to the gills

Driving through the midnight rain
Driving through the midnight rain
Driving through the midnight rain
raaaaaainnnn
Driving on Going home

They left you at the station

With your thoughts of immigration
You rode a loaded greyhound through the night
Crying like the loon
As that Minnesota Moon's shining bright

But now you're back again
And it looks like you found a friend
The two of us be soaring like a kite

Look who just walked in the door
We've all seen your face before
Time to settle up the score
Keep those promises you swore
Look who just walked in the door

Look who just walked through the door,
We've all seen your face before
It's time to settle up the score
Keep those promises you swore
Look who just walked in the door

-Transcribed (Warts & All) by Tobias Trey Cameron

Lyrics Submitted by Tobias Trey Cameron

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>