

Can't Stop Falling

Great Big Sea

I wasn't looking for a lover, I wasn't looking for a friend
I wasn't working undercover, I wasn't trying to pretend
But when you walked across the dance floor, just like the moon across the sky
I knew that I would have to see more, I knew that I would have to try
I look into your eyes and I realize Oh no, I can't stop falling
My heart betrays me
And I know, I'll start to feel it all again
Won't someone save me? She jumped aboard the brown line, I accidentally caught her eye
She told me she was born a Libra, and I told her I was Gemini
She made suggestive conversation, then she lightly brushed my hand
Overcome by her temptation, we jumped off down by the strand
And in the English night, oh I realize it again Oh no, I can't stop falling
My heart betrays me
And I know, I'll start to feel it all again
Won't someone save me? She asks me to come inside, we could just talk for a while
I wonder if I should, but her touch, her touch, it feels so good.
I look into your eyes, and I realize it again. Oh no, I can't stop falling
My heart betrays me
And I know, I'll start to feel it all again
Won't someone save me?

Songwriters

SEAN MCCANN, ALAN DOYLE Published by

Lyrics © CARLIN AMERICA INC

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>