

Freedom Song

John Paul Jones

Darling will you come let's take a holiday we've been working hard all summer the autumn is nearly begun lets fly away to an island in the sun

How about New York?
Just a few hours away go see __?_, the Whitney museum, and maybe the Carnegie hall just go shopping, or walking, do nothing at all we could take a hike, tie up a hammock (hamper?) find a nice place by a babbling brook and a book and a view that we like finish the afternoon nicely with renting a bike what about your mum she could look after the kids while we take a few days off we'll feel like we're on the run nothing can possibly stop us from having some fun i will call in sick make up a story I'll tell them i'm poorly and hope that they fall for the same old trick book the hotel and the flights and get away quick let's go right away there no sense thinking about all the ins and the outs abound we wont do it at all if we stay take the bull by the horns darling tell me what do you say

Darling come with me we'll have a good time away from the telephone, paging, and messaging, new interactive tv no one to fax us or tax us and we shall be free
