Trigger

Bec Stevens

and i once loved a beast Iâ€™ve never met someone that can make you feel as low as he so i was laced with defeat his words so harming physical abuse had seemed a treat and i had dreams you took his life in my honour you beat him senseless said you can end it if i like but Iâ€™ve give nothing more to kick him down myself and show him how it hurts you took all i had you left me standing here, full of fear with a gun in my hand pull the trigger if you can yeah he can you said you know how it feels to have everything you need but still wake up screaming why the fuck am i here and Iâ€™m not ok but i couldâ€™ve been but instead i chose to stagnate in waste and this tiny room with an old box of letters and none of them addressed from you from you

it never made that much sense that after all the things you do youâ€™re still the one i want in my bed
