Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

That day in May
The day your father went insane
You called his army buds
He asked a question, well hey
Hey, where did they go?
Where did you go? That much the same
But in pharmacology
I took a drug for you
I took a drug for you
That funny thing, escaping reality
To find a common place
To climb the ramparts of your chest I did find it was much of the same
Too much of the same
Well hey, hey, give it to me
Give it to me
Hey, hey, give it to me
Give it to me That day in May
I stole your father's car
And took it to the beach
Buried that fucker deep, well
Hey, where did it go?
Where did you go? You took the pill
And held it out to me
The perfect symmetry
The way it matched the knuckles on
Your palm
I felt it take hold
Think I left my body now I did find it was too much of the same
Too much of the same
Well hey, hey, give it to me
Give it to me
Well hey, give it to me

Give it to me
