

First Days of Spring (ft. Matt

Neverending White Lights

Space became empty I returned to a place where nothing grew Stealing my way back just to see a face that we never know Moving through softly, needing you awake more than anything I'll always have visions just before the first days of Spring Feeling my way back just to see eyes, and you never die
I'm cooling my jets down, this never goes away I never realized Stealing my soul back, I love you more than anything I'll always have visions just before the first days of Spring
