Paradise Lost

There's something in the air that greets me

There's something in the air

I don't know where I belong, or where does it go from here See my dreams; they're not like anyone's

There's something in your stare that greets me

There's something in your stare that tells me where I belong

And where it all goes from here I don't know where I belong or where it all goes from here

See my dreams; they're not like anyone's, anyone's

There's something in the air

I don't know where I went wrong or where does it go from here See my dreams; they're not like anyone's, anyone's
