

Rain Comes Crashing Down (Jack Blades)

Night Ranger

So you say you've written letters
And you've mailed them to yourself
And through the politics of compromise
You've left them lying upon your shelf At the risk of seeming crazy
I've set off to find your cure
With apologies for knowing
It's a difficult time of year And the shadows you leave behind you
Are like the rain that's crashing down
When there's no one left around
I'll be the rain that's crashing
Rain that's crashing down So you say we're going nowhere
With the fear of wasting youth
Through the different times and with different eyes
I see it every change in you And now we've reached the point of knowing
That in love we're never sure
Still I'm holding on tight to memories
And there you go walking out the door And the shadows you leave behind you
Are like the rain that's falling down
And your halo was left in town
And still the rain comes crashing down
And the sadness you leave behind you Like shadows across the ground
When there's no one left around
I'll be the rain that's crashing
Rain that's crashing down Like shadows across the ground
When there's no one left around
I'll be the rain that's crashing
Rain that's crashing down Rain comes crashing down
Rain comes crashing down
Rain comes crashing down
Rain comes crashing down Rain comes crashing down
Rain comes crashing down
Rain comes crashing down The rain
The rain
The rain

Songwriters

JACK BLADES Published by

Lyrics © THE BICYCLE MUSIC COMPANY Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>