I See Storms

Rita Hosking

The following is only my best guess. Just like the Credence song "Bad Moon Rising", there could be some "There's a bathroom on the right" misquotes below...but I tried! I LOVE this song!

I see storms, babe, I see storms.
Oh, I see storms like I never ever seen before.
I hear the rain, babe! I hear rain.
Oh I hear rain that'll wash the veils away.

I worry that those on the shore who left me
For some sadly, on this churning sea.
Should I paddle toward the down pour a life time
How I miss those lights on a Friday night.

I see storms, babe, I see storms.
Oh, I see storms like I never ever seen before.
I need faith, babe, I need faith.
Oh, I need faith that my heart and soul won't break.

Strokes in time, fall in line, like a drum.
There's more worlds than one, underneath the sun.
Though to you it might look like the same old town.
Things are different now, under these storm clouds.

And I got to walk my talk,
I got to see in the dark,
I got songs and I got dreams.

I got coyote in my blood.
I got a boat for the flood
Do I got everything I need?

I see storms, babe, I see storms.
Oh, I see storms like I never ever seen before.
I need faith, babe, I need faith.
Oh, I need faith that my fellow man won't break.
