

Altered Boy

Jimmy Buffett

Jimmy Buffett, Wayne Jobson Oh no, he's buying an island
Oh no, he's building a boat
Why does he never stop smiling?
Fun surrounds him like a deep moat Where does he get all those stories?
How can he tell such a lie?
He's bound to see purgatory
His views are in short supply But Peter Pan would understand
His schemes and dreams and ploys
Best keep an eye on his slight hand
He such an altered boy Good God, he's talking with parrots
Painting his dreams in the sand
Piling up beaucoup demerits
Doing it just 'cause he can By Jove he's having a cocoa Evading those judgemental eyes
Calmly walking his tight rope
High above all the outcries But Peter Pan would understand
His schemes and dreams and ploys
Best keep an eye on his slight hand
He such an altered boy The story goes he stumbled at the alter
Now it seems he just blasphemes
And dwells with dangers daughter Someone call the talking doctor
Somebody get a SWAT team
There he sits getting away with murder
How dare him live out his dreams But Peter Pan would understand
His schemes and dreams and ploys
Best keep an eye on his slight hand
He such an altered boy Oh no, he's sailing today
Oh no, beware Paraguay
Oh no, anchors aweigh
Oh no

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>