

The Machines of B

Jordan Reyne

When the machines have gone
You'll wonder where you've been
 You cant outrun yourself
 But you're alone again
 An ordinary man
 An ordinary girl
 Somewhere along the way

We learned we cant change the world
But you'll wish that you had
And all the hollow things
 Ride on a colored sea
 But only see themselves
 In every other thing.
 It is a lonely world
 An ordinary place
When the machines have gone
You cannot fill their space
But you'll wish that you had
