London Skies

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Im an alien in my life
Dont you know? My skin is white as snow
I went running to the sun
It burnt me up, a painful kind of funYoure loving me, give me eyes to see
Rain, cool me down, Im feverish
Oh, and Im to blame
Rain, calling me from London skies
Bring me home againAnd you always let me go
Even when you knew I was gone for good
In the wreckage of the hell I made
You were there, fire stormed youYoure loving me, give me eyes to see
Rain, cool me down, Im feverish
Oh, and Im to blame
Rain, calling me from London skies
Bring me home againSo I tell you that I love you
Words are cheap and they cannot buy me time
When my shadow cuts my life in two
I can see the best of me is youYoure loving me, give me eyes to see
You are there and down, but you mean to me
Rain, cool me down, Im feverish
Oh, and Im to blame
Rain, calling me from London skies
Bring me home againWe alter and grow
Oh, how it shaped, but somethings stay immutable
We alter and grow
Oh, how it changed, but somethings stay in immutable like love
