

Where Is Your Heart At?

Jamie Cullum

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

You asked me over, and over and over
Have you seen my peacock-feathered hat?
If it was under a four-leaf clover
I'd be on the lawn lookin' for that Where is your heart at?
Nobody knows that,
Even though you've him, her, me and an army searching
I've got a feeling, you will be reeling
When you are bad and the circus comes to town
And you'll see me leaving dressed up
As a magician or something like that You're satin flip-flops are hidden in the Pockets of your velvet dressing gown
Your diamond cuff-links are hidden in the Ruffles of your silk white shirt from town Where is your heart at?
Nobody knows that,
Even though you've him, her, me and an army searching
I've got a feeling, you will be reeling
When you are bad and the circus comes to town
And you'll see me leaving dressed up
As a magician or something like that (hey)
