

Heart On My Sleeve

Idina Menzel

She will never be invincible
She will never be some Florence Nightingale
Her thresholds invisible
But shell hang on like hellYeah, she may be transparent
Shes got no defenses to speak of
But shell stand here before you with no pride or prejudice
Just steadfast and certain that shell land on her own two feetYou'll, youll think you can break her
Cause you, you think that shes crazy and weak
But her power will defy you when she wears her heart on her sleeve
Heart on her sleeveShe will never learn your tranquility
She will never learn how to let things slide off her
Joy over whelm her and her sorrow wont subsideYeah, she still may be transparent
She got no, she's got no defenses to speak of
But she will stand here before you with no pride or prejudice
Just steadfast and certain that shell land on her own two feetYou think you can break her
Cause you think that shes crazy and weak
But her power will defy you when she wears her heart on her sleeveOh you, you may condemn me
With your, your bitter words and untouchable rage
Yeah you, you may torment me
Cause I dont lead my life in your way
But I will stand here before you with no pride or prejudice
Just steadfast and certain that I will land on my own two feetYou, you think you can break me
Bring my, my head down to my knees
But my power will defy you when my hearts on my sleeve
