Until I Cross That Line

The Lonely Heartstring Band

It was pouring rain
When I jumped that train
Underneath the cover of the night

As that whistle blew,
My thoughts turned to you
Still stuck inside the city lights

She was good, she was kind
She gave me piece of mind
But all that love I've left behind

Oh I'd never know what I could become
Until I cross that line

So I worked the land
Held a hammer in my hand
Felt the blood flowing back to my heart

I breathed ocean air
I heard a siren's prayer
And the seams began to tear apart

So build me a fire
That will never die
Dig a well that won't run dry

Oh I'd never know the depth of my soul
Until I cross that line

When that sun has set
I cannot forget
All the years I've spent chasing time

When you dig my grave
There'll be nothing left to see
Just release my spirit to the sky

So love don't be weary
Don't be idle tonight

Will we wake to see another light?

Oh I'm just a shadow inside a dream
Until I cross that line
Until I cross that line
