Carriers of the Light

Brendan James

Went to a party just the other day with all of you Fresh off the road and pretty tired Didn't have to worry cause the ice is always broken As we catch each others eyes across the fireHad a couple of drinks and a conversation About what's going on beneath the surface Told you how hard it was and I know you really listen And you make me see it's all worth it And once again it feels so good to be with friends like youYou are the ones You are the reason I'm not scared to step into the fight You are the soul you are the hope You are the carriers of the lightI'd never write a song this true Never be me without youWalked down the hall past the kitchen with the slate blue walls More going on than meets the eye Things were transforming There was smoked and I passed through it When it cleared I could hear the dance music The dance music You are the ones You are the reason I'm not scared to step into the fight You are the soul you are the hope You are the carriers of the lightI'd never write a song this true Never be me without youYou are you are you are carrying the light You are you are carrying carrying You are the ones You are the reason I'm not scared to step into the fight You are the soul you are the hope You are the carriers of the lightYouuu yooouuu I'd never write a song this true
