

Only With You

Andy Snitzer

(Raymond McGinley)

I've got a pocketful of words in my brain
I pull something out when I think I should
 I feel like I'm going insane
I'm not I just said it cos I thought I would
 I always feel the need to profane
I've always said fuck when I thought I could
 To me this seems so inane
 I don't need an attitude
 Rebellion is a platitude
 I only hope the verse is good
 I hate verisimilitude
I've got a reason to think of your name
I always feel good when I look at you
 I never feel the need to defame
 Irony is something I mistook
In you I know our needs are the same
I'm thankful for not overlooking you
 Still I need to declaim
 I don't need an attitude
 Rebellion is a platitude

I only hope the verse is good
 I hate verisimilitude
 I don't need an attitude
 Rebellion is a platitude
 I only hope the verse is good
 I hate verisimilitude
I've got a pocketful of words in my brain
I'll try to find something I can give to you
 I feel like I'm going insane
I know I'll calm down when I live with you
 You always feel the need to profane
I guess that's something I'll forgive of you
 Still I need to explain
 I don't need an attitude
 Rebellion is a platitude
 I only hope the verse is good
 I hate verisimilitude

I don't need an attitude
Rebellion is a platitude
I only hope the verse is good
I hate verisimilitude
