One Single Night

Sixtwoseven

I've got this feeling welling up deep inside me the feeling sticks around from the morning to night the kind of feeling that I just shouldn't trust you the kind of feeling something just isn't right When you are young they say wait till you are older what could you learn if you don't pass any tests It's hard to breathe with this weight on your shoulders you can't inhale when it's crushing your chest

You may have noticed I've been keeping my distance
I like you better at an arms length away
You keep your friends close and your enemies closer
That only works when you can see where they lay You're either with me, or you are against me
So can you tell me, are you with me or not?
But if you tell me that you are against me You'd better come with everything that you've got

We all feel safe at home at night in our castles
All tucked up nice and warm and tight in our beds
I'm here to tell you there is no rest for the wicked
I couldn't spend one single night in your head
