Tragic Flaws

Steel Prophet

How many times I've climbed the mountain, to look down on me
From this point I almost can see, the things that make me crumble down, run my world into the groundThe story always ends, with the gouging of eyes, defeat round the bend
It seems the tragic flaw, has conquered again, brought it's painful endThis time I ride out, proud to behold we take the queen, the enemy lies cold
But I gaze into the crystal ball; my folly's brought ruin to us all. Again![Solo: SK]

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/