

Make It Last

Stroke 9

the fire flickers out, making movies on her skin and in the embers she remembers all the places that she's been four letter words fly from her mouth she thinks she's breaking ground time takes it's toll, she feels his soul in everything around and I say the way that you feel now it's cool as long as I know the way it's gonna be make it last for an hour we'll never feel this way again make it all that you want and everything that I need the booze reaches her blood she forgets his name the wood has turned to coal but our desire feeds the flame will we surrender to the night? or will our conscience win the fight? she won't regress, but can't confess that everything's alright and I say the way that you feel now it's cool as long as I know the way it's gonna be it's gonna take more where we're gonna go....
