Buttons

Snowblink

Your twin hair of ash, of blonde, of dune

Your twin eyes of chrome, of peacoat blue

One eye twinned twice
Oh you two of the same name . . .

Red clay as far as you could see
But treasures lay in trillions beneath

Try not to talk about it--
Oh you two !

Your treasure talks in droves
It talks tidal
So measure your true trove
It's wise-old

So let fly and unfasten
Whatâ€™s been buttoned neck-high for your sweet lifeâ€™s rare ration
Your tongueâ€™s been all bell-shy-- well

You can't un-try the feast your appetite speaks of

Your twin hair -- wheat blonde dune - oh you two

Your twin eyes of chrome of yonder blue

One eye twinned twice
Oh you two of the same name
Oh now you two

Up to your waists yes up to your faces in french clay
Up to your necks yes up to high places in buttons!
