

Falling Down

Pennywise

Falling down everyday, to where I can't be found Left like some wreckage that's been shot down over sacred ground
Can't find a place for refuge, safe exits slip away
No chance for my redemption, stumbling towards an early grave
Falling everyday, farther all the time
Searching for something there, something I can never find
Falling everyday, farther all the time
Searching for something there, something I can never find
Without a sound, the silence waits-keeps pulling me back down
I push against it but there is no use I can't stop now
No place I can hold to, how much further can I go Sliding down into the darkness, waiting for the fatal blow
