Blind

Swans

Now some of us are weak and some endure
Some people live their life, with a violence that's pure and clean
But I saw a man cry once, down on his knees
In the corner of a darkened cell, and his pain meant nothing to meBut I was younger then young men never die
When I walked out in the sun, I was strong, clear-minded and blindNow don't say a prayer for anyone, it doesn't do any good
Please don't ask me questions, it'd just be misunderstood
And if you could step inside me you'd feel what hatred brings
And if you saw with my eyes, you'd see what self-deception meansI was younger once, and I created a lie
And though my body was strong, I was self-diluted, confident, and blindNow show some pity, for the weak of will
Because when we're drinking, we can never be filled
Show some understanding for a lonely fool
Because when I'm drinking, I am out of control
Well I was never young, nothing has transpired
And when I look in the mirror, I feel dead, I feel cold, I am blindI am blind
Mmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmm
I am blind
I am blind
