The Terrorist

Captain Dangerous

The TerroristI wonder past this sight with indifference. We talked twelve miles an hour by the side of the road. Me and my conscience listened pensively to the words of a different breed I wonder by with starry eyes a shadow of my former dome and.She looks at me and kisses softly
If love exists this must be it see
She stands and walks straight through the door I wanted her I wanted herAll I want to say is I need you
In every single way I dont need
Believe me when I say you dont need me
Believe me when I say you touched me in someway.Every time I look in the mirror, I wonder why my hair is this colour. Surely this just caused a riff that made her fall so someones lips I wanna be alone and drink alone and smoke alone. I wanna hang myself from the rafters, my anviled heart crushed like a crisp beneath my shoes from bended hips. I wanna go home wanna go home wanna home I wanna go home wanna go home wanna go home.She stands and walks straight for the door I never want you anymore. Who is that I used to be I never loved you anyway believe me when I say you cant carry on that way.
