

Voices (Acoustic)

Saosin

I miss the part, when we were moving forward now
(On our way down)
But maybe someday, I'll be something more than love Just know I'll never tell And when you're on your way down
(Through the clouds)
And you're waiting for your body's re-entry again We speak in different voices
When fighting with the ones we've loved
We speak in different voices
Why can't we say what we're thinking of? I'm missing parts, now that you've told me everything
(On our way down)
And I was blessed and I've forgotten how to love You said, you'd never tell And when you're on your way down
(Through the clouds)
And you're waiting for your body's re-entry again We speak in different voices
When fighting with the ones we've loved
We speak in different voices
Why can't we say what we're thinking of? Not even I will tell We speak in different voices
When fighting with the ones we've loved
We speak in different voices
We say these things to know they're real We speak in different voices
When fighting with the ones we've loved
We speak in different voices
Why can't we say what we're thinking of? We speak in different voices
When fighting with the one's we've loved
We speak in different voices
(We speak in different voices) To know they're real, real
I'll never
