

Habit

Gates

Pull You in like the smoke from a first drag
Feel You burning like fire in my chest
All of You lingering in light before I breathe you in again
We are all that I swore would never happen
And still you devour me
Like a habit
We are all that I swore would never happen
Embraced like a burden kept close
I draw You in me
And let You go
Love only lingers if You let it go
We are all that I swore would never happen
And still you devour me
Like a habit
We are all that I swore would never happen
