

Cottage In Negril

Tyrone Taylor

From a little cottage in Negril
I wrote these lines to you
From a little cottage in Negril
I realise I love you still
From a little cottage on a hill
Way down Western Negril
This man sit, pining for your love
Gee Wee I miss you
Though my lips wanna kiss you
Call you on the phone
To my surprise you were not home
From a little cottage in Negril
I wrote these lines to you
Ohh oh baby
From a little cottage in Negril
I realise I love you still
The sun is setting low
On the deep blue sea
I'm sitting here, thinking how it used to be Wishing and hoping
If I could have you for myself
And go west to watch the sunset at the Ritz Cafe
From a little cottage in Negril
I wrote these lines to you
From a little cottage in Negril
Oh oh lady
I realise I love you still
Love you, ohMy-y-y
The sun is setting low
On the deep blue sea
I'm sitting here, thinking how it used to be
Wishing and hoping that I could have you for myself
Then go west to watch the sunset at the Ritz Cafe
From a little cottage in Negril
I wrote these lines to you
Oh oh oh baby
From a little cottage in Negril
I realise I love you still
Love you
I love you, yes I do baby
Never wanna, never wanna, loose your love
no no, no no baby,
You bring me joy my my my Right now I need you more
I need rain
