If You Had A Bad Time

Alkaline Trio

If you had a bad time at one of my parties
Well I wouldn't expect to be seeing you soon and that's fine
You have to know what and why, those things make you happy
You have to know that a second guess ain't worth the tryJust some words of advice
Maybe you've heard them before but here goes
Just be true to yourself if it lands you in hell
Well at least now you knowLoud and clear if your life's big and bright
Of the places you might someday go
With one million things holding you down
Now you're one of those things I don't know, no big deal, gotta goIf you're up to your ears, in blood, sweat and wasted years
I'm hoping you're going to open your throat and just scream
You have to know when, why, which ones miss you when you die
You have to know that a second guess ain't worth the salt in your eyeJust some words of advice
Maybe you've heard them before but here goes
Just be true to yourself if it lands you in hell
Well at least now you knowLoud and clear if your life's big and bright
All the places you might someday go
With one million things holding you down
Now you're one of those things, no big dealIf your seat's on my shoulders you're breaking my neck
We get crazy with it and now you're under my bed
And it's dark all the time, all the timeJust some words of advice
Maybe you've heard them before but here goes
Just be true to yourself if it lands you in hell
Well at least now you knowLoud and clear if your life's big and bright
All the places you might someday go
With one million things holding you down
Now you're one of those things I don't know, no big deal here I go
