

Everybody Wants Somebody

Patrick Stump

I, tonight, I feel like being alone.
If you don't mind, if you don't mind would you please be so kind to close the door behind you.
It's been a long, long time since I found this line of doubt how low.
So I deny I feel like,
I feel like, I feel, baby now
Everybody wants somebody
who doesn't want them,
or want somebody else, baby.
You want somebody?
Oh, you want someone?
Somebody else, somebody else
And don't get hurt, don't you get hurt.
And don't get hurt, don't you get.
And don't get hurt, don't you get hurt now.
And don't get hurt, don't you get.
A young man is a pulled pin
looking for the grenade, hey.
A you woman will drive you to places
you never meant to go.
But epiphany is such a clich.
Whoa, there's plenty of fish in the wrong sea
Like there's a premium on mystery again
Just hold me, distract me.
Dress me up in bubbles, baby
Save me from the troubles of my own skin.
Everybody wants somebody
who doesn't want them,
or want somebody else, baby.
You want somebody?
Oh, you want someone?
Somebody else, somebody else
And don't get hurt, don't you get hurt.
And don't get hurt, don't you get.
And don't get hurt, don't you get hurt now.

And don't get hurt, don't you get.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>