You're Gone

Something Corporate

Taking steps back through
The words I should have said to you
They all got lost, you went away
Well I feel sick and
You just don't care anymore
Anymore
Hours to be with you
Minutes of me in you
And I can't feel this happening
So tie my hands back
And make me feel you coming down
I'm coming down
And you don't care
Your face is on a billboard
And you're everywhere
You don't care much for interviews
You're gone, you're gone, you're gone
You're gone, you're gone, you're gone, you're gone
You're gone away
If you don't like being hurt, then please don't stay
Its hard to wave goodbye
From aeroplanes and I
Just don't think that you can see
I taper off and say it's never worth the pain
But sometimes it is

And you don't care
Your face is on a billboard
And you're everywhere
You don't care much for interviews
You're gone, you're gone, you're gone
You're gone, you're gone, you're gone, you're gone
You're gone away
If you don't like being hurt then please don't stay
If you don't like being hurt then please don't stay
God I wish that I could make this right
I wish that there was something worth the time for her to give to me
A phone call from L.A is my present
There is nothing left for me to give

I wish I could
And I know that I should but
You know I know I won't
And you don't care
Your face is on a billboard
And you're everywhere
You don't care much for interviews
You're gone you're gone you're gone
You're gone you're gone you're gone you're gone
You're gone away
If you don't like being hurt then please don't stay
If you don't like being hurt then get away
If you don't like being hurt then please don't stay
