Best Thing

Jeremy Kay

If I never told you how your love has turn me inside-out
If I never told you how sweet the sound of your voice, your voice is music to my ears
It's the sound I long to hear
It motes away all my fears
Maybe the best thing I have done is learning to love someone, like I love you, like I love you
Your skin so smooth against my hand, to have you here with me now it's to end, baby.
How do I begin to tell you all the things inside my head, there's so much I have left unsaid
If I've ever left you down, then we'll lay here now to rest.
Maybe the best thing I have done is learning to love someone, like I love you, like I love you.
And maybe the worst thing I could do is assume you know it's true.
So if I never told you, I love you.
So if I never told you, let me hold you, let me suit you.
Maybe the best thing I have done is learning to love someone, like I love you, like I love you
And maybe the worst thing I could do is just assume you know it's true.
So if I never told you, I love you. I love you.
