Between You and I

Big Wreck

So now she's on her way

Home from work alone for dinner

You close the door to the microwave

Underneath that phone that just won't ringSittin on the bus

Stare a hole right through the floor

Listening to the squeaky door

Open and close at a stop that's never mine They say if It's well enough

Just leave it alone and they would never

Think to call your bluff

The lie you believed till you're standing all exposedOh you confide

And all those fools will fly

Between you and I

Between you and II've seen that look before

On someone else

Years ago and It's come

Around againExcuse me while I place a blame on you

The game has conned you now

And It never was your fault

The wind just seemed to carry the spit your wayMy time is spent

So all those years can blend

Between you and I

Why'd you confide

Now all your friends can slide

Between you and I

Between you and I

Between you and I

Between you and IThe effort to forget

Nature's moving far too slow

The effort to forget

I still recall the effort to forget
