

Morning Waits

As I Lay Dying

All along it was me who changed
Morning now waits for me
All along it was me who changed
Morning now waits
Morning now waits for me
What I have to gain
Does not matter
If what I give is all to You
If what I give is all to You
I have seen the stars fall
And the sun rise again
But You are yet to change
You are yet to change
You are all that is worth
You are all that is worth living for
What I have to gain
Does not matter
If what I give is all to You
If what I give is all to You
You are all that is worth living for
You are all that is worth living for
You are all that is worth living for
