

Family Tree

Mason Jennings

Well, all the dreams have gone from my worried mind
Ain't no pretty pictures left by luck's design
And baby, I'm just a leaf hanging on my family tree
I'm just a leaf hanging on my family tree
And it's a weak branch that's been hanging me
April, if you May, comes to June and July
All these months to the flame and still no butterfly, boy
I'm just a leaf blowing on my family tree
I'm just a leaf blowing on my family tree
And it's strong wind that's been blowing me
Baby, don't you cry, it won't matter to you
'Cause every bad life goes by
And your mama loves you, yes she does
Now, there's a lotta good things that my daddy did
But there ain't no burden like an unplanned kid
And baby, I'm falling now, don't know where I'm gonna land
I'm falling now, don't know where I'm gonna land
Half in the shadows, honey, and half in the light, that's right

Songwriters

Mason Jennings
Published by

BUG MUSIC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>