Daddy Doesn't Pray Anymore

Chris Stapleton

Daddy doesnâ€™t pray anymore
I guess heâ€™s finished talking to the Lord
He used to fold his hands and bow his head down to the floor
But daddy doesnâ€™t pray anymore

I remember even when the times were bad
He thanked Jesus for everything he had
For a good wife and three children
And the food upon our plates
Yeah, everything was right when he said, grace

There was a time when we didnâ€™t get along
Cause I thought I was right and he was wrong
Still when I laid down at night
Iâ€™d hear him get down on his knees
And say a little prayer for me

Today I followed daddy down to church
And listened to the preacher read Godâ€™s word
We sang his favorite hymn but daddy didnâ€™t make a sound
This afternoon weâ€™ll lay him in the ground
But daddy doesnâ€™t pray anymore
I guess heâ€™s finally walking with the Lord
He used to fold his hands and bow his head down to the floor
But daddy doesnâ€™t pray anymore
