

Don't Give Up (this Goes Out...)

Auburn

This goes out to my home-girls, this goes out to my homies.

Baby girl I know that you've been off track.
You feel like taking one step forwards, you're taking two back.
No how matter how hard you try things always go bad.
The thought of a better life, you'll never know that.
You smile on the out but inside you hurt,
You say that you're fine, but you feel unsure.
Try to replace the pain by saying false words.
You see that girl in the mirror but don't know her.

But the tears can't wash away,
All the fears you haven't faced.
Baby girl don't lose your faith cause' the storm don't last always.

[Chorus]

This goes out to my home-girls.
Know it's hard to make it in this world.
I know you try and it feels like nothing goes right.
But it will be alright.
This one goes out to my homies trying to survive out in these streets.
I know it's tough, forced to grow up, life isn't as rough, now keep your head up.

Baby boy the streets is all that you.
You dream of a higher place instead you stay low.
You go home at night and your all alone.
Wanna call out to your boys but their all gone.
You tell yourself that you don't need no one else.
But if only.
You will try, won't get lonely, won't have to hide what your feeling.

But the tears can't wash away,
All the fears you haven't faced.
Baby boy don't lose your faith cause' the storm don't last always.

[Chorus]

This one goes out to my homies trying to survive out in these streets.
I know it's tough, forced to grow up, life isn't as rough, now keep your head up.
This goes out to my home-girls.

Know it's hard to make it in this world.
I know you try and it feels like nothing goes right.
But it will be alright.

Baby girl keep your head up.
Promise you'll never give up.
Baby boy keep your head up.
Promise you'll never give up.

[Chorus]

This goes out to my home-girls.
Know it's hard to make it in this world.
I know you try and it feels like nothing goes right.
But it will be alright.

This one goes out to my homies trying to survive out in these streets.
I know it's tough, forced to grow up, life isn't as rough, now keep your head up.
