Paperweight

Cloakroom

You exist in material states
One part paper one part weight
You could not decide what force is holding you down today
It was never my placeI could dare you to move but it would sound so dumb
You are my wrecking ball through a condominium
Let me stare off a rooftop afar
Thought I belonged in the canopy
Satisfied with all the deconstruction I could see
The firmament hangs
The world rejoices as all it's retained goes away
