

Where I've Made My Home

Joseph Pfeifer

I don't think you're understanding when I tell you
That my love for you is much
Deeper than you know
I think this world has played its tricks on you again
'Cause I'd never leave you out there
In the cold Please oh please listen closely
When I say I'll never leave you here alone
Believe me when, when I tell you
That you're heart is where
Where I've made my home Belief's have got their share of consequences
They'll shape the way you act
And how you're gonna think
And logic's got its place for you to reason
Tells you a heavy stone in water's gonna sink But the eyes of faith'll get you past conclusions
And you'll see things that you've never seen before
It'll pick you up and get those legs movin'
It'll keep that 'ole heavy stone afloat Please oh please listen closely
When I say I'll never leave you here alone
Believe me when, when I tell you
That you're heart is where
Where I've made my home Dear friend the choice is yours
It always has been
I won't barge through any barricaded doors
And you can count on this
To always be a constant
That I'd give my life for yours
Like I did before
