Opeth

I arose from the lullaby
Enduring yet another tale
You tempt me again
With your embrace, so taintedWithin the night you beckon
Cursing me with every glanceBring me through
Carry my empty shadow
And guide me inside your warped labyrinth
To the well of sin
I swear I will always love youLeave me speechless
Release my yearning
The soil I walk is clad with light
Drifting moons thrust me with their rays
And I fall insideI lament this heritage
Cannot bid farewell
The pale face, you went as far as you could go
And from that moment
I witnessed your beauty, felt your deathMine is yours
(Mine is yours)
In the wake of dawn
The mist of morning linger before it leavesInvisible eyes, red reflection
It is you, it is you
Smiling in the [Incomprehensible]
