

Individual Thought Patterns

Death

So quick to judge
So easily we forget
What it's like to be dissected
Where feelings are tossed aside
Like a drug it feeds the imagination of minds
That go unparalyzed
Followers to the leaders of mass hypnotic corruption
That live their lives only to criticize
Where is the invisible line that we must draw
To create individual thought patterns
Prisoners of mental deception
Be free within singular judgment
Twisting words to control the masses
To cover up one's self insecurities
Like a drug it feeds the imagination of minds
That go unparalyzed
Followers to the leaders of mass hypnotic corruption
That live their lives only to criticize
Where is the invisible line that we must draw
To create individual thought
