No or Yes

Late Night Alumni

The moment I sigh and decide
Sure, I'll grow used to these lonely nights
The wind, it blows and I change my mind
Feel a familiar shiver down my spineNow it's noon, the clock tower chimes
How long have I been wasting all my time?A typical damsel in distress
And all my life up to this request
Why can't I just say no or yes
When I clearly know which one is best?I look in the window but it's full of lies
Tell myself, walk on by but my heart replies
You'll run yourself to your own demise
If you keep building your bridges on land minesNow it's two, the clock tower chimes
Look at me still wasting all my timeA typical damsel in distress
And all my life up to this request
Why can't I just say no or yes
When I clearly know which one is best?Why can't I just, why can't I just
Why can't I just, why can't I just
Why can't I just, why can't I just
Say no or yes?Why can't I just say no or yes?
Why can't I just say no or yes?
Say no or yes, say no or yes
