

The Second Coming

In Due Time

until the time I had a dream one night that I was standing in the street and something drew my eyes to the heavens where I could see a light that was the climax of my sight I had never seen such majesty in all my life
I could not turn away was this that fateful day where I would see the face of victory that saved my life when on that cross he died I did not see his face that day after all this was only a dream in a dream you can only see what your mind can understand and that was the climax of my sight
and this is why I could never deny as I looked up to the sky I saw the clouds turn to light I can't describe the feeling inside a feeling I won't feel again until the time when we rise
